ARTIST JOHN H. WHITE FEATURED ON ‘ARTIST LECTURE SERIES’ – Photographer John H. White will deliver a talk on his photography practice as part of the Artist Lecture Series on Wednesday, Nov. 5, at 12 p.m. in Novar Hall. The event is open to the entire Truman Community.

Born in Lexington, N.C., the son of an African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church minister and his wife, White bought his first camera at age 13 for 50-cents and 10 Bazooka bubble gum wrappers. He received his first photo assignment from his father. He recalls, “Our church burned down and my father asked me to take pictures of the ruins and the whole reconstruction. Maybe that’s why I do picture stories now; because I started that way.”

White received an Associate of Applied Science degree in commercial art and advertising design from Central Piedmont Community College in Charlotte, N.C., in 1966. One week after graduation, he began active duty with the U.S. Marine Corps and quickly rose to the rank of Sergeant, serving as a photographer. As a Marine photographer, he received numerous awards and honors, and his work was featured regularly in military publications. After military service, White worked in the photo lab at Tom Walters Photography Studio in Charlotte, N.C., for one year. That year, he entered the Southern Short Course in News Photography competition and won second place nationally in the General News category. This captured the attention of an editor at the Chicago Daily News who recruited White to come to Chicago to join his staff.

White began his newspaper career at the Chicago Daily News as a photographer in 1969, moving to the Chicago Sun-Times when the Daily News ceased publication in 1978. In 2014 he celebrated his 45th year as a Chicago photojournalist. He says his greatest joy is being the “eyes” for the people of Chicago on a daily basis and sharing “what I see and what I feel” through the lens of his camera. He has received more than 300 awards from international, national and local organizations throughout his career, including the Pulitzer Prize for feature photography in 1982.

EBOLA AWARENESS – As we hear more about Ebola in the United States, City Colleges of Chicago would like you to be equipped with information about the virus. Please know that CCC takes the health and well-being of its students, faculty and staff seriously.

Here is some of what we know about Ebola¹:

- Ebola is a virus which includes symptoms such as fever, headache, joint and muscle aches, weakness, diarrhea, vomiting, stomach pain, lack of appetite and abnormal bleeding.
- It is spread through direct contact with blood or other bodily fluids of an infected person who has symptoms, or with a person who has recently died of Ebola.
- It is not spread through the air or by water.
- A person infected with Ebola cannot pass it on to others before the symptoms appear.

The risk of catching Ebola in the general public is extremely low.
If you think you have symptoms you should immediately seek medical attention.
If you have questions about Ebola you can call the Illinois Ebola Hotline at 800.889.3931 or visit the Center for Disease Control and Preventions Ebola Website.

APPLAUSE! APPLAUSE! KUDOS TO . . .

Congratulations to Steven Teref and Maja Teref for their translation of Serbian poet Ana Ristovic’s “Snow in Your Shoes” in the October 27 issue of The New Yorker. The poem is taken from their forthcoming book of translations of Ristovic’s poems, “Directions for Use” (Zephyr Press, 2016). Steven is an adult education manager who has been with Truman College since 2006. Maja is an adult educator who has taught at Truman since 1995.

Applause for photography instructor Jan Wessels who, with fellow artist Darlene Poloniak, is presenting a photography series titled “Another Light” at North Central College in Naperville through December 11.

THE FEDERAL CAMPUS SEXUAL ASSAULT VICTIMS’ BILL OF RIGHTS — The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act (commonly referred to as the “Clery Act”), 20 U.S.C. § 1092(f), was named after a 19-year-old freshman at Lehigh University who was raped and murdered in her campus dorm. The Clery Act requires colleges and universities receiving federal aid to: keep and disclose crime information from, on, or near campus (within the Clery geography); provide an Annual Security Report (“ASR”) by October 1st of each school year; maintain a crime log and crime statistics; have a policy to timely disclose emergencies or threats to the campus community; as well as have policies to handle reports of missing students. This law requires that all colleges and universities (both public and private) participating in federal student aid programs afford sexual assault victims certain basic rights.

The “Campus Sexual Assault Victims’ Bill of Rights” exists as part of the campus security reporting requirements under the Jeanne Clery Act.

• Survivors shall be informed of their options to notify law enforcement.

• Survivors shall be notified of counseling services.

• Survivors shall be notified of options for changing academic and living situations.

• Accuser and accused must have the same opportunity to have others present.

• Both parties shall be informed of the outcome of any disciplinary proceeding.
