

Jennifer Vogel

B.A. in History from University of Florida

M.S. in College Student Affairs from Nova Southeastern University

What's the best thing about being a College Advisor: My favorite part of being an advisor is that I can be a guide to students. I enjoy helping students as they grow and being able to watch them pursue and achieve their academic, professional, and personal goals.

Advice: Seek out student resources at the beginning of the semester! Avoid waiting until half way through the semester to go to Tutoring or the Writing Lab. It's better to be proactive than reactive to a bad test grade. Also, use your advisor as a resource! Check in once a semester whether it's through email or in person. And don't forget to let us know about the successes or achievements you accomplish!