

Mark Sorto

B.A. Communication Studies from Northern Illinois University
M.S. Ed. Adult and Higher Education from Northern Illinois University

What's the best thing about being a College Advisor: In order to be successful in college, I recommended students take advantage of the many great resources around them. Whether it be checking into Advising for class selection, requesting additional tutoring for a specific class, or simply getting involved with student organizations. As a first-generation student, I took advantage of the many resources around me and asked many questions, because I didn't want to jeopardize my success for lack of involvement. Students must remember they're investing in their own success and you must work hard to succeed.

Advice: "The price of success is hard work, dedication to the job at hand, and the determination that whether we win or lose, we have applied the best of ourselves to the task at hand."

-Vince Lombardi