

Tip #5 – Know Your Application Deadlines

Did you know that there are colleges and universities that are still accepting applications and there is no need to wait until graduation or final grades to apply? Below are a list of colleges and universities in the state that are still accepting applications.

Chicago State University – January 6	Loyola University – December 1
Columbia College * - December 13	National Louis University – Rolling admission
DePaul University * - November 1	Northeastern Illinois University – November 1
Dominican University – rolling admission	Northern Illinois University – December 1
Eastern Illinois University – rolling admission	Shimer College – rolling admission
Fisk University * - November 1	Southern Illinois University – rolling admission
Governors State University – rolling admission	Resurrection University – Varies by program
Illinois State University – November 1	Roosevelt University – Rolling admission
Illinois Institute of Technology * – rolling admission	University of Illinois @Chicago * – October 15

*Indicates colleges and universities using the Common Application system

Don't Wait! Visit your campus Transfer Center today to get help in completing your applications (application fee waivers provided to eligible students).

A Note on rolling admission – Rolling admission means that the institution will accept applications up until the first week of classes, but don't delay in applying. You still want to apply early.